A Disappointed Assemblage-The Goldamit Maid-Lucy Exhibition of Speed Declared Off-The Drivers of the Honest Allen-Kingsten Teams Not on Hand-Two Unimper-tant Trots Allowed to Take Place With greatly disappointed yesterday, and this feeling was fully shared in by fifteen hundred or more gentle-men and many ladies who had left their business homes and journeyed there expecting to ess two trotting events of interest-these being e exhibition of speed between the mares Gold-nith Maid and Lucz, and the match race between onest Allen and running mate and Kingand running mate. Neither took the course and public greatly disappointed, rties who have the trotters in charge to appear ntil after one o'clock, and then only when for the purpose of sending the mares home to Philadelphia. This was carried into effect soon after, much to the chagrin of the assembled hun-dreds; and when Hickok was asked for an explanation it was given, we are assured, in words these:-- We came here expecting to make time, and the public will hardly be satisfied lition that we could hardly do better than 2:24 or 2:25 to-day, and that won't do." Subse-2:24 or 2:25 to-day, and that won't do." Subsequently Budd Doble, the driver of Goldsmith Maid, was seen on the grounds, and he expressed it as his opinion that the track, owing "to shippery places here and there, was unfit to trot valuable horses on." This settled the Goldsmith Maid-Locy business, and then attention was given to the team concest. Many questions were asked similar to "Why ain't this track good enough for the teams? It's drying up every minute," and such was really the case, and later in the day it was morst rate order for the season. The Superintendent could not reply to this question, as neither of the drivers of the teams had put in an appearance. While the reason for the disappointment was being explained to the earlier comers the crowd augmented rapidly, but many turned away disgusted with the existing state of affairs, and although these soon spread the news "down the read" among the scores of carriages that were yet on the way to the track, causing them also to turn their horses towards the city, the attendance that Ingered and witnessed two unimportant contests was exceedingly gratifying.

These were the advertised races of the day before, postponed because of the storm, but the directors would not let them be decided until the drivers and owners renounced all claim to "gate money," when the track was thrown open without charge to the assemblage; and for the afternoon the clubhouse doors were open to the populace, and these concessions put everybody in quite good humor, ready to appreciate the events about to be decided.

The first of these was announced as a sweepstakes of $300, mile heats, best three in five, in harness, entered for which were George Engerman's hay geiding Clambake, L. S. Sammis' chesnut geiding Venture and George Wright's chesnut geiding Venture and George Wright's chesnut geiding Venture and George with the afternoon the clubhouse doors were open to the populace, and these concessions put everybody in quite good humor, ready to appreciate the events about to be decid

How the Depositors Get Neither Money Nor Satisfaction-An Indignation Meeting to be

Sank, corner of Broodway and Eighth street, osed its doors and suspended business. At the stigation of some of the directors, Mr. Archer, f the Erie Railway office, was appointed receiver, president of the Institution, and is said to hold some of its stock. Shortly after taking charge of the nk Mr. Archer promised several of the depositor who called upon him in relation to the matter that be would make a report of the condition of the concern within tulrty days. Forty-four days have now etapsed, and yet are the anxious depositors they confidingly entrusted their funds, and, as a natural consequence, they are somewhat in dignant towards the receiver. Immediately upon the appointment of Mr. Archer he in turn appointed Mr. Van Ordan, the cashier of the bank, as his assistant, and to this same Mr. Van Ordan, the cashier of the bank, as his assistant, and to this same Mr. Van Ordan went all the depositors for information and consolation. With both they were at first plenthully supplied, the gentleman answering them that they need have no apprehension at all in regard to their deposits, as everything was all right and they would without count get every cent due them. Two or three weeks rolled by and they again called, individually, upon Mr. Van Ordan; but now his manner towards them had changed greatly, for instead of the former open and frank manner with which he had received them and answered their questions he was rather short and decidedly ambiguous in his replies to them. Monday he would have one story to tell, and Tuesday another; Wednesday he would not know anything about it, while on Thursday everything would be lovely and the position of the feathered biped eminently satisfactory. Under these circumstances the implicit confidence which the depositors had so recently imposed in the late cashier changed first to suspicion and finally to distrust, till at length they determined to call a meeting of their brother victums—about seven hundred in number—to be held at the Sinclair House, corner of Broadway and Eighth street, next Tuesday evening, at five Oclock, for the purpose of taking some action in the matter.

I FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

On 'Change to-day wheat was heavy on large receipts, and weak. The cotton marke! was dull, but strong and rather better.

The receipts of cotton at all the ports for the past week were 104,743 baies, against 101,494 bales the previous week. The total receipts since September 1, 1871, are 770,274 bales, against 918,663 bales for the decrease in the present crop of 148,389 bales. The exports from all the ports for the week were 52,428 year. The total exports for the expired portion of the cotton year are 335,115 bales, against 459,508 bales for the same time last year. The stock at all the ports is 350,813 bales, against 330,734 bales for the same date in 1870.
MONEY MORE ACTIVE.

The money market was quiet during the earlier hours of the day, but it was observed that while the government dealers were readily supplied at 5 a 6 per cent, the stockhouses were less readily supplied at 5 per cent, although it was Saturday, when loans are generally easier than on any other day of the week, other things being equal. After two o'clock the inquiry became sharp at 7 per cent, and smal left off at 6 per cent on governments and 7 on stocks. Artificial manipulation was strongly suspected. Prime paper was quoted 7c, a 12 per cent dis-

Foreign exchange was steady and unchanged.

THE BANK STATEMENT.

The weekly statement of the associated banks proves quite unfavorable, because, on the one hand, these institutions have increased their loans two millions, although they have lost a million and a half in legal reserve. The specie export and customs duties so equally balanced the outcome of coin from the Treasury that the specie item shows little a haif in greenbacks, shipped, doubtless, to the South and West. The banks appear to of loans in order to meet this demand for currency. but increased their loans to fill up the space caused trifling change. The statement compares with its predecessor, as follows:-

The government list was a fraction better in the currency sixes, but otherwise steady and quiet. The following were the closing street prices:--United States currency sixes, 113 ½ a 113 ½; do. do., 1881, registered, 116 ½ a 116 ½; do. do., eoupon, 117 ½ a 117 ½; do. five-twenties, registered, May and November, 111 a 111 ½; do. do., 1862, eoupon, do., 111 ¾ a 111 ½; do. do., 1864, do. do., 111 ¾ a 111 ½; do. do., 1865, do. do., 111% a 111%; do. do., registered, January and July, 113% a 114%; do. do., 1865, coupon, do., 113% a 114%; do. do., 1867, do. do., 114% a 114%; do. do., 1868, do. do., 114% a 115; do., ten-forties, registered, 109% a 110; do. do., coupon, 109% a 110.

SAD END OF A WELL KNOWN ACTRESS.

An Incident of the Chicago Fire-A Touching Stery. [From the St. Louis Democrat, Nov. 23.]

A death occurred at the Monroe House, on the corner of Sixth and Market streets, at an early hour resterday morning, with which, as well as with the life of the deceased, are connected some singular circumstances. On the 16th list, a couple days, registering their names as Mrs. Cook and James Morrison. The lady was twenty-four years

James Morrison. The lady was twenty-four years of age, and authough ill and poorly clad at the time of her arrival, was evidently a person of refinement, and her pinched face showed traces of unusual beauty. Her companion, Morrison, was of middle age, a Scotchman by birth, a sailor, and appeared to be possessed of more than ordinary intelligence. Soon after arriving Mrs. Scotchway in telligence. Soon after arriving Mrs. Scotchway is taken alarmingly ill, and was carefully attended by the landlord's wife, as well as by Morrison, who had been his daughter.

During her liness the mistress of the house learned from Mrs. Cook a portion of her former history. Her hame was Annie Glover, and she was born and educated at Glasgow, Scotland, where her father and uncle owned a large theatire. At the carly age of four years she appeared upon the stage, exhibiting such decided talent that she soon became a favorite, and, upon arriving at the age of woman-hood, commanded the largest salary of any stock actress in the city. The death of her parents left her in possession of some property, which she sold, and the proceeds, added to her own carnings, amounted to seventy-nve or eighty thousand dollars. With this sum she came to this conntry, where, a fiter playing a short time, she met and married a man named Barry. The marriage did not prove a happy one, as Barry squandered her fortune, and soon left her penalicss. She then applied prove a happy one, as Barry squandered her local of and procured a divorce. Barry, for whole she shill entertained much of her old affection, plead so cloquently and made such promises for the future that she was finally induced to marry him for the second time. She quickly discovered that her husband's promised reformation was not to be hoped for, and, disheartened, she lett him and made her way to Cheago, where she soon after appeared as leading lady at McVicker's Theatre. At this theatre and at Wood's Museum she played several seasons, commonding a salary of from fify to sixy dollars per she saved her money, intending to embrace the first lavorable opportunity of carming a livelihood in any other honorable way. A few months since sae was offered a situation as saleswoman, and, the salary being sufficient to aftord her a living, she accepted it. She was acting in this capacity when the great fire occurred, and was unable to save any of her effects, excepting the clothing she wore. Rendered homeless, and her employer's store being destroyed, as well as the residences of her friends, she could turn nowner for shelter. Whit thousands of others sevene cold, which settled on her tunes. She hesitated to apply to her iriends for assistance, as but lew of them were better of than horself, it was at thus time that time the Morrhson, whom she had not seen since she was a child in Scolland. Morrison had at that time known her family munastely, and, although when he met her he was only a poorly paid said to the service of the season of the
